

The Osher Center for Integrative Health at Vanderbilt (OCIH-V)
Integrative Health Psychologist

The Osher Center for Integrative Health at Vanderbilt (OCIH-V) is currently seeking a full-time licensed psychologist who will have a primary faculty appointment within the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, in the Vanderbilt University School of Medicine. OCIH-V provides relationship-centered care in a healing environment. We use an interdisciplinary team-based model to engage the whole person in accessing their natural capacity for health and healing.

QUALIFICATIONS:

- Doctorate (Ph.D. or Psy.D.) degree in clinical or counseling psychology from an APA-accredited psychology program
- APA-accredited internship/residency in professional psychology
- Eligible for licensure as a psychologist with the Health Services Provider (HSP) designation in the state of TN

Knowledge and experience working with adult patients with chronic medical conditions and/or chronic pain in a medical setting is required. Broad knowledge of working with trauma is also required. Familiarity with and interest in integrative/complementary therapies and body-centered approaches to care is preferred.

This is a primarily clinical position and responsibilities include conducting initial consultations, providing individual and group therapy to adult patients with chronic medical conditions, and serving as an active member of an interdisciplinary treatment team. Responsibilities also include attending and participating in OCIH-V meetings and attending required faculty meetings and conferences (i.e. Department of PM&R faculty meetings, Grand Rounds, faculty trainings). There are opportunities for involvement in supervision, education, and research depending on interests and experience. Extensive training and mentorship in clinical mindfulness and clinical hypnosis are offered.

This position will be based in Nashville, TN, and will require providing in-person and telehealth care with dedicated in-person clinic days. There is flexibility for some work from home after the first 6 months.

Position available currently for a start date of Summer or Fall 2024. Salary and benefits are very competitive. Please see summary of benefits at <https://hr.vumc.org> and click on benefits.
